

yes Resolution Contest – Terms and conditions

Preamble

All updates on the current Covid-19 situation with regard to the JEF FC in October and the prizes can be found on the yes Resolution Contest website.

Article 1 – Participants

- Participants must be between 18 and 35 years old in October 2020,
- Participants must reside in Switzerland or be registered at a Swiss university if on exchange.
- Participants in the contest commit themselves to attend the JEF FC conference in October 2020 if they win the main prize of the contest and to present and defend their resolution there. The conference takes place over a weekend (from Friday around 18:00 in the evening to Sunday afternoon around 15:00), the exact dates will be communicated on the website as soon as they are known.

Article 2 – Topic of the resolution and questions a resolution must address

The topic of the resolution will be the following:

European foreign trade in the context of resurging nationalism and protectionism

The questions the resolution must address are, by order of priority (from highest to lowest), the following:

- How can Europe defend its commercial interests abroad in an ever more competitive environment?
- What commercial interests should be defended and how? Think about agricultural products, raw materials, manufactured goods and services.
- How should the EU go about issues such as mutual foreign direct investments, recognition of intellectual property, mutual access to public procurement?
- Should the EU's trade relations be conditional on social, environmental and other factors?
- Should the EU's foreign trade policy reflect broader European values and if yes, which ones?
- What are the likely longer-term geopolitical impacts of the approach proposed in the resolution? Think about how to reduce negative outcomes.

Article 3 – Evaluation criteria

- The jury will evaluate the resolutions by judging in particular (non-exhaustive list):
 - The way in which the subject is introduced in the preamble.
 - The quality and originality of the proposed solutions.
 - The quality of the language used.
 - In addition, participants are encouraged to mention in their resolution the relevant active resolutions (if any) of JEF Europe. These can be viewed in appendix 1 to this document (see below).

Article 4 – Submissions

- The participants will submit the following documents:
 - Their resolution written in the template provided on the website in both .docx and .pdf formats.
 - 5 lines written by each participant to briefly describe himself/herself.
 - In addition, participants who wish to do so may submit 1 A4 page maximum explaining the reasoning behind their resolution and the trade-offs they made. This part of the submission will not be evaluated as such but may help the jury to better understand and evaluate the resolution.
- All these documents must be submitted together within the submission deadline (12 July 2020).
- All resolutions must be written in English, the working language of JEF Europe.
- The participants, through their participation, pledge on their honour that they received no external help in writing their submissions.

Article 5 – Communication

- All communications and questions pertaining to this contest shall be addressed to the dedicated e-mail address: resolution-contest@y-e-s.ch

Article 6 – Social Media

- The participants accept that yes may present pictures of them taken at the awards ceremony or at the JEF FC in October on the yes website and on the yes social media channels (Facebook, Twitter and Instagram).

Article 7 – Awarding of prizes

The jury will determine the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places in the Resolution Contest, based on the evaluation criteria set forth in these terms and conditions.

- 1st ranked resolution: The team who wrote the best resolution will win the main prize: they will have the chance to present their resolution at the JEF FC conference in October 2020. All travel and conference registration costs (including accommodation) will be provided by yes. It should be noted that if the participant/team of participants with the 1st ranked resolution cannot participate in the JEF FC conference, then the main prize will be awarded to the 2nd ranked resolution, and so on until a participant/team of participants is found that will attend the conference. The resolution ranked 1st will in that case receive the prize intended for the 2nd best resolution, and so on.
- Prizes will also be awarded for the participant/team of participants who submitted the resolutions ranked 2nd and 3rd.
- The participants/teams of participants who wrote the 5 best resolutions will be invited to the awards ceremony and their resolutions will be published on the yes website.
- All participants will be awarded a certificate of participation, to honour the time and effort they poured into writing their resolutions.

Article 8 – Main prize – JEF FC conference in October

- The main prize winner(s) will be participating in the JEF Europe conference as members of the Swiss delegation alongside members of yes.
- The main prize winner(s) will be in charge of registering for the conference and booking their travel arrangements themselves. yes will consult with them to attempt to travel together (on the same flights).
- yes will be in charge of submitting the winning resolution to JEF Europe for inclusion in the conference programme. The resolution will thus be debated and voted upon during the JEF FC conference.
- The main prize winner(s) may be called upon to briefly present, explain or defend their resolution in the working groups. yes members will provide assistance during this process.
- yes will reimburse all incurred expenses to travel to and to register at the conference (accommodation is provided with registration). Participants shall hand in the corresponding receipts.

Article 9 – Jury

- A jury of 5 persons will be put in place to evaluate the submissions and settle all matters in relation to this contest.
- One person shall be designated to act as the president of the jury.
- Matters will generally be settled by consensus. Where consensus is not possible, a simple majority vote will be taken, all ties being settled by the president of the jury.
- All the decisions of the jury are final and any recourse to legal proceedings is excluded.

Article 10 – Revision and changes

- The present Terms and Conditions are subject to revision and changes.
- The most up-to-date version can always be found on the yes website under www.y-e-s.ch/resolution-contest.
